

EDITORIAL

You can't judge a book by the cover

'You can't judge a book by the cover', sang Bo Diddley, but we hope that the new cover of the Scandinavian Journal of Urology will tell you something. In order to be eco-friendly, our journal, together with other journals published by Taylor & Francis, will no longer use plastic laminated covers and will be distributed without plastic packaging – so called 'naked mailing'. At the same time, we have taken the opportunity to redesign the cover.

In other developments, our editorial board has recruited new members to the advisory board in order to further increase its areas of expertise and its diversity. We are very happy to welcome our new board members!

In this issue you will find a new section, 'News and Views' that will contain short summaries and commentaries by invited authors on important articles recently published in other journals. We hope you will enjoy reading this section!

Pär Stattin
Editor in Chief

Department of Surgical Sciences, Uppsala University Hospital,
Uppsala, Sweden ✉ par.stattin@surgsci.uu.se

© 2021 Acta Chirurgica Scandinavica Society